Beneficial Ownership Information reporting – What information is required?

Beginning in 2024 all domestic and foreign reporting companies will have to file a Beneficial Ownership Information (BOI) report with the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN) established under the Corporate Transparency Act.

This fact sheet will help you determine if your entity is a reporting company, and if so, the information that you will have to report in your initial BOI report, in addition to some key definitions and dates.

Is your entity
a reporting company?

1. (a) For domestic (US) entities: Is the entity a corporation, LLC, or other entity created by the filing of a document with a secretary of state or any similar office under the law of a State or Indian tribe?

If the answer is no, your entity might not be a reporting company. If the answer is yes, go to question 2.

- (b) For foreign (non-US) entities: Is the entity a corporation, LLC or other entity formed under the law of a foreign country and registered to do business in any State or tribal jurisdiction by the filing of a document with a secretary of state or any similar office under the law of a State or Indian tribe?

If the answer is no, your entity might not be a reporting company. If the answer is yes, go to question 2.

2. Does the entity qualify for an exemption? (Refer to The 23 exemptions from the Corporate Transparency Act's beneficial ownership information reporting requirement to determine if your entity is exempt from being a reporting company)

If the answer is yes, your entity might not be a reporting company. If the answer is no, your entity may be a reporting company and you should continue on to see what information will have to be reported.
